

ANNOUNCEMENT AND CALL FOR PAPERS
FEDERAL RESERVE DAY-AHEAD CONFERENCE ON FINANCIAL MARKETS AND INSTITUTIONS

Hosted by the Federal Reserve Board of Governors

SUBMISSION DEADLINE: June 30, 2026

CONFERENCE DATE: January 6, 2027

The 20th annual Day-Ahead Conference on Financial Markets and Institutions is an opportunity for productive interaction after the 2027 ASSA meeting and the sharing of policy-relevant research among economists in the Federal Reserve System, at other central banks, and in academia. The meeting will be held in-person at the Federal Reserve Board of Governors. To avoid holding the conference on New Year's Day, this year's edition will be held the first full day after the closing of the ASSA meeting.

The organizing committee invites the submission of theoretical and empirical research on domestic and international financial markets and institutions, particularly on topics such as:

- Monetary policy implementation, money markets and central bank balance sheets
- Financial stability and the conduct of monetary policy
- Maturity transformation, liquidity risk, and runs on financial institutions
- Nonbank financial intermediation
- Financial markets and the macroeconomy
- Real estate and mortgage markets
- Household finance and the transmission of monetary policy
- Financial innovation and artificial intelligence
- Effects of inflation on financial markets and institutions
- Banking regulation and monetary policy
- Interconnectedness of global financial markets
- Cryptocurrencies and stablecoins
- Emerging risks to financial stability

Please submit your paper by Tuesday June 30, 2026, to FRS-Day-Ahead-Conference@frb.gov. Completed drafts will be given a higher preference than abstracts. Among papers of similar quality, a paper with a coauthor from a central bank will be given preference. Due to the close proximity to the ASSA meetings, presenters and discussants are expected to cover their own travel expenses.
